

The Bean Archetypes

Bean	Core Identity	Emotional Signature
Coffee	Analytical, observant, introverted, thoughtful, overthinker	Depth over breadth
Vanilla	Adventurous, energetic, spontaneous, optimistic	Motion over stillness
Chilli	Bold, rebellious, blunt, chaotic, authentic	Truth over comfort
Jelly	Social, funny, expressive, charismatic, loud	Connection over solitude
Green	Calm, emotionally intelligent, mindful, grounding	Presence over noise

QUIZ

15 questions.

Each question has 5 options. Each option distributes weighted points to multiple beans. Max possible raw score per bean if perfectly scored: tracked via balance table at the end.

1. When you walk into a party you weren't really planning to attend, your 1st instinct is a	Find the quietest corner & observe before deciding to whether actually exist there	Coffee 3, Green 1

b	Immediately find whoever seems fun and attach yourself to them	Vanilla 2, Jelly 2
c	Go straight to the drinks, start a random conversation, and somehow end up being the life of the party	Jelly 3, Chilli 1
d	Feel mildly overwhelmed but breathe through it, talk to one or two people intentionally	Green 3, coffee 1
e	Walk in like you own it, say something mildly controversial, and see who laughs	Chilli 3, Jelly 1

2. A close friend is going through something. You naturally:

a	Sit with them without trying to fix anything—just be there	Green 3, coffee 1
b	Send them a voice note rant about how much you love them & want to fight whatever hurt them	Jelly 2, Chilli 2
c	Research their problem obsessively & come back with a 5-point plan	Coffee 3, green 1
d	Distract them—plan something exciting, make them laugh, shift the energy	Vanilla 2, jelly 2
e	Tell them exactly what you think, even if it's hard to hear, because that's real love	Chilli 3 green 1

3. Your notes app is probably:

a	Full of half-finished thoughts, observations, & ideas you'll "definitely come back to"	Coffee 3, Vanilla 1
b	Vibes, quotes, random plans & screenshots with zero organisation	Vanilla 2, Jelly 2 c	Empty.. You keep things in your head	Chilli 2, Coffee 2 d	A mix of to-dos, reflections & things you're trying to process	Green 3, Coffee 1
e	Mostly voice memos of you talking to yourself	Jelly 3, Vanilla 1

4. When someone gives you unsolicited advice, you:

a	Smile, nod, mentally file it under "noted & ignored"	Coffee 2, Green 2
b	Genuinely consider it – even if you don't agree, input is data	Coffee 3, Vanilla 1
c	Tell them immediately why that won't work for you	Chilli 3, Coffee 1

d	Feel weirdly defensive but try not to show it	Jelly 2, Green 2
e	Laugh it off & redirect the conversation to something more fun	Vanilla 2, Jelly 2

5. Your ideal Sunday looks like:

a	Doing something completely spontaneous – no plan, just vibes	Vanilla 3, Jelly 1
b	A slow morning, a book or podcast, limited social interaction	Coffee 3, Green 1
c	Being with people you love, probably too loud, probably eating something good	Jelly 3, Vanilla 1
d	Finally doing something you've been putting off – you'll feel peaceful after	Green 2, Coffee 2
e	Literally doing whatever you feel like with zero apology	Chilli 3, Vanilla 1

6. When you're making a big decision, you tend to:

a	Research it until you feel sick & make a spreadsheet no one asked for	Coffee 3, Green 1
b	Go with your gut, immediately, and figure it out as you go	Vanilla 3, Chilli 1
c	Talk it through with at least 3 people before landing anywhere	Jelly 2, Green 2 d	Sit with it quietly until something becomes clear	Green 3, Coffee 1
e	Make the call, own it fully, and don't second guess	Chilli 3, Vanilla 1

7. The compliment that actually lands for you:

a	"You always know exactly what to say"	Green 2, Jelly 2
b	"You make everything more fun"	Vanilla 2, Jelly 2
c	"You're the most real person I know"	Chilli 3, Coffee 1
d	"You notice things no one else does"	Coffee 3, Green 1
e	"You light up every room you're in"	Jelly 3, Vanilla 1

8. When conflict arises in a group, you're typically:

a	Quietly trying to understand everyone's position before saying anything	Coffee 2, Green 2
b	Address it directly & immediately – tension makes you itch	Chilli 3, Vanilla 1
c	Try to lighten the mood – sometimes humour is the safest bridge	Jelly 3, Vanilla 1
d	Become the unofficial mediator, emotionally holding the room	Green 3, Coffee 1
e	Go quiet & process it later, probably alone	Coffee 3, Green 1

9. Which of these sentences could you have written?

a	"I don't hate people. I just find them exhausting in large doses"	Coffee 3, Green 1 b	"I want to do everything. I genuinely cannot choose"	Vanilla 3, Jelly 1 c	"I will not apologise for being too much. That's not my problem"	Chilli 3, Coffee 1

d	"Everyone is going through something. Be gentler than you think you need to be"	Green 3, Coffee 1
e	"If I like you, you will know. If I love you, the whole world will know"	Jelly 3, Vanilla 1

10. How do you feel about being perceived?

a	You care more than you admit, but you'd die before you'd admit it	Coffee 2, Chilli 2
b	You want to be liked but you won't pretend to be someone you're not	Chilli 2, Green 2
c	You genuinely love when people get you—it feels like a little win	Jelly 3, Vanilla 1
d	You're pretty indifferent. People will think what they want to think	Chilli 3, Coffee 1
e	You care deeply but channel it into just being as authentic as possible	Green 2, Coffee 2

11. When you're overwhelmed, you:

a	Go silent & disappear into yourself for a while	Coffee 3, Green 1
b	Move – walk, exercise, plan a trip, do something physical	Vanilla 3, Chilli 1
c	Call someone and talk it out until it makes sense	Jelly 3, Green 1
d	Get weirdly productive – chaos becomes fuel	Chilli 2, Vanilla 2
e	Meditate, journal, breathe – regulate before you act	Green 3, Coffee 1

12. Your relationship with rules is:

a	You follow them if they make sense. If they don't, you quietly route around them	Coffee 2, Chilli 2
b	You find them mildly insulting unless they are genuinely necessary	Chilli 3, Green 1
c	You follow them mostly, but you love creative exceptions	Vanilla 2, Jelly 2 d	You prefer guidelines. Rigid rules stress you out	Green 2, Vanilla 2
e	Rules are just "suggestions from people who couldn't handle your energy"	Chilli 3, Jelly 1

13. What kind of energy do you bring to a group project?

a	The researcher - you go deep, come back with more than anyone asked for	Coffee 3, Green 1
b	The hype person - morale, energy, keeping it fun even when it's boring	Jelly 2, Vanilla 2
c	The wildcard - you bring the unexpected idea that somehow works	Chilli 2, Vanilla 2
d	The anchor - you keep things calm, grounded & moving	Green 3, Coffee 1
e	The connector - you get everyone talking & make the group feel like a team	Jelly 3, Vanilla 1

14. Your inner monologue at 2am looks like:

a	Replaying every social interaction you had in the last week	Coffee 3, Jelly 1
b	Planning something you're not sure you'll actually do	Vanilla 3, Coffee 1

c	Processing someone else's feelings with more care than your own	Green 3, Coffee 1
d	Writing a mental monologue you'll never say out loud	Chilli 2, Coffee 2
e	Thinking about something funny that happened 3 years ago	Jelly 3, Vanilla 1

15. The way you love people:

a	Quietly, deeply, through details they never noticed you noticed	Coffee 3, Green 1
b	Loudly, expressively, with enthusiasm that might embarrass them slightly	Jelly 3, Vanilla 1
c	Through honesty– even when it would've been easier to be soft	Chilli 3, Coffee 1
d	By showing up– consistently, reliably, without needing to make it a big thing	Green 3, Vanilla 1
e	Through experience– adventures, plans, new things, dragging them into life	Vanilla 3, Jelly 1

SCORING LOGIC

1. Tally raw scores. Raw scores = Sum of all weighted points for each bean
2. Calculate total points. Total points = Coffee + Vanilla + Chilli + Jelly + Green
3. Calculate % per bean. Bean% = (raw score of bean / Total points) x 100. Round to the nearest whole number. Adjust largest bean by ±1 if sum ≠ 100
4. Determine Primary & Secondary Beans. Primary = Highest %, Secondary = 2nd highest % Display as- "You are 60% chilli, 25% coffee, 10% green, 3% Jelly, 2% vanilla)
5. Interpret the blend:
 - If Primary bean > 50%: Dominant archetype, secondary as a "flavour note"
 - If Primary bean 35 - 49%: Dual archetype blend (name the top 2)

- If 2 beans are within 5% of each other: Classify as a “True Blend” – rare type

BEAN COMPOSITION BALANCE

Bean	Target Max Raw Score	Notes
Coffee	~ 42 pts	Dominant in introspective/analytical
Vanilla	~ 38 pts	Strong in action/spontaneity
Chilli	~ 42 pts	Dominant in conflict/authenticity
Jelly	~ 38 pts	Dominant in social/love
Green	~ 40 pts	Distributed across emotional regulation

RESULT PROFILES

Coffee Bean

“The one who notices everything and says nothing.”

Core Identity: You live a few steps behind the surface. You see patterns in people’s behaviour before they see them in themselves. Conversations with you feel like finally being understood. You’re not antisocial — you’re selective.

Stress Behaviour: Withdrawal, over-analysis, rumination spirals. You replay conversations looking for what you missed. You go quiet when you need help most.

Hidden Trait: You are far funnier than people expect. Your humour is dry, precise, perfectly timed — and devastating.

What People Misunderstand: That you’re cold, or uninterested. You’re neither. You’re just watching. When you finally speak, it means something.

Compatibility Note: You balance beautifully with Jelly Bean energy (they externalize what you internalize) and Green Bean (they hold space for your spirals).

Vanilla Bean

“The one who makes you feel like anything is possible.”

Core Identity: You are not shallow — you are expansive. You collect experiences the way others collect things. Boredom feels like a small death. You make ordinary moments feel like something worth remembering.

Stress Behaviour: Escape mode. You plan trips, start new projects, move your furniture — anything to feel like forward motion. Sitting with discomfort is your hardest skill.

Hidden Trait: You carry anxiety that no one sees. The optimism is real, but it also works overtime to outrun a fear of things being still.

What People Misunderstand: That you're not serious, or that your enthusiasm is performative. It isn't. You are exactly this alive.

Compatibility Note: You need Coffee Bean's depth to slow you down, and Green Bean's stillness to help you land.

Chilli Bean

"The one who makes you feel like anything is possible."

Core Identity: You are not shallow — you are expansive. You collect experiences the way others collect things. Boredom feels like a small death. You make ordinary moments feel like something worth remembering.

Stress Behaviour: Escape mode. You plan trips, start new projects, move your furniture — anything to feel like forward motion. Sitting with discomfort is your hardest skill.

Hidden Trait: You carry anxiety that no one sees. The optimism is real, but it also works overtime to outrun a fear of things being still.

What People Misunderstand: That you're not serious, or that your enthusiasm is performative. It isn't. You are exactly this alive.

Compatibility Note: You need Coffee Bean's depth to slow you down, and Green Bean's stillness to help you land.

Jelly Bean

"The one who makes every room feel like it was missing something before they arrived."

Core Identity: You are a natural connector. You remember birthdays, inside jokes, and the name of someone's dog. Relationships are your primary language. You don't just want to be liked — you genuinely love people, loudly and without apology.

Stress Behaviour: Over-extension. You take on everyone's emotional labour until you've got nothing left. You perform okayness long after you stopped being okay.

Hidden Trait: You crave depth. Beneath the social ease is someone who wants to be truly, completely known — and worries they're only loved for being fun.

What People Misunderstand: That you're all surface. You are not. The expressiveness is real, but so is the person underneath it who thinks about everything.

Compatibility Note: You ground beautifully with Coffee Bean (who sees past the performance) and Green Bean (who holds you without needing you to be "on").

Green Bean

"The one who makes every room feel like it was missing something before they arrived."

Core Identity: You are a natural connector. You remember birthdays, inside jokes, and the name of someone's dog. Relationships are your primary language. You don't just want to be liked — you genuinely love people, loudly and without apology.

Stress Behaviour: Over-extension. You take on everyone's emotional labour until you've got nothing left. You perform okayness long after you stopped being okay.

Hidden Trait: You crave depth. Beneath the social ease is someone who wants to be truly, completely known — and worries they're only loved for being fun.

What People Misunderstand: That you're all surface. You are not. The expressiveness is real, but so is the person underneath it who thinks about everything.

Compatibility Note: You ground beautifully with Coffee Bean (who sees past the performance) and Green Bean (who holds you without needing you to be "on").